

Homestay Report 4.

Nanami Sato

I had a pretty good experience today. My host family was so kind to take me to various places in New York and explained about those places. Among the places I visited today, my most favorite place was the Top of the Rockefeller Center building. I felt a little scared because I'm not good at high places. My host sis was also the same. We went up taking the stairs so I got very tired but I felt more fun than tired!!!! Sometimes I couldn't make myself understood in English, so I decided to study English harder than before!!!
